Heating glass flask over hydrogen burner, before proceeding with next operation.

Sealing end of graduate and adding glass hose connector. Blowing keeps inside pressure even.

Modern man, in search of new ways of doing his job quicker, constantly develops new methods to help him toward this goal

Even in the ancient art of shaping glass, new mass production methods like automatic molds, drills and grinders help speed production

But not so at the Glass Technology Laboratory at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis where the 2,000-year-old method of glass blowing is still used for both instruction and production

Glass forming works on the principle that when glass is heated, it can by various methods be formed into any shape the worker wants. The shaping method runs from the automated variety used by many of today's glass manufacturers to the oldest and most basic technique, used by the University.

At the University they begin with various sizes and shapes of glass already commercially produced, seal one end to make it air tight and place a hose in the other end. The part of the glass to be shaped is heated over a hydrogen burner to make it soft. When it is pliable the worker blows through the hose into the tube until the heated glass bulges outward. A paddle-shaped tool made of carbon is used to reform or take off excess glass.

Under the direction of its manager, Marvin Dynes, the University glass laboratory custom builds and repairs all specialized glass instruments needed by the school and does research and development on new glass products.

The laboratory is student-staffed. Each student attends required University courses leading to a degree in glass technology. The more advanced students work on research and development, while beginning students learn basic glass techniques by working on smaller, routine glass orders.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS had us testing ourselves again Tuesday night. This time it was a sports and physical fitness quiz and it really didn't add up to much except mild amusement.

Of course, this test-taker may just be sore about ending up with a miserable score — high side of poor. I knew which pitch out of three was the baseball strike, but I called the runner out at first when he wasn't. I was able to tell lacrosse from pushball, and a butterfly stroke from the crawl in swimming, but had bad trouble with the identities of record-breaking runners and the burn-up rate of calories during a brisk walk.

This test, unlike earlier ones on driving or income taxes, was a hodge-podge covering everything from Satchel Paige's recipe for longevity to the speed at which baseballs travel, and must really be counted more as entertainment than enlightenment.

Earlier in the evening there was available still another fun and danger filled episode of NBC's "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E." It would seem wise if Mr. Waverly, the U.N.C.L.E. boss fired that April Dancer. She is intrepid all right but too glib for a secret agent. Tuesday night she stumbled around in a spooky dark theatre after a telephone call any member of the audience could have told her was a ruse.

"Petticoat Junction" on CBS has quietly moved into its fourth season as a popular but largely unsung little comedy series. Most episodes — like Tuesday night's — are low key, but there is a pleasant quality about its country-style humor.

The scripts are professional and are handled deftly by the regular performers. In particular, Bea Benedaret, who plays the mother of the three pretty girls, invests her role with a sort of warm and weary cynicism that goes down very easily.

On a return visit to NBC's "Occasional Wife," it still looked like an amusing show with two exceptionally attractive, bright young stars, Michael Callan and Patricia Harris.

Horse racing fans who study performance charts, track conditions and such things to decide which horse they will bet on can usually supply a few stories about women who have picked winners based on nothing more than the horse's name.

Mrs. Betty Jo Watson of Dumas picks baseball champions the same way.
During a family discussion 12 years ago, the subject got around to the Baltimore Orioles.

"With such a pretty name, that team is bound to win the pennant," she told her husband, Bill Watson.

"A mink coat is yours if the Orioles ever win a pennant," said Watson, an avid fan of the New York Yankees.

As most folks know, the Orioles won the American League pennant this year and went on to sweep the World Series in four games against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

When the Orioles won the AL flag, Watson said his wife pranced around their home "singing songs and jumping up and down, I thought she'd lost her mind."

Watson gave his wife a notarized certificate promising a full length mink coat "when she is absolutely certain that she and I can afford same."

Mrs. Watson said she was satisfied with the promise.
"A mink coat over blue jeans wouldn't look too good anyhow," she said.

A recent poll shows that at least five Paragould area residents want a closer look before deciding whether unidentified flying objects are from outer space.

In the poll, five said maybe, while 32 others were sure of their decisions — 16 saying yes and 16 saying no.

LACE—A GENTLE PROTEST against violence and moral decadence should be in the wardrobe of every woman. It's hard to be anything but gracious in lace. It's the epitome of femininity and brings out the gentleness in the male species as well.

The Boutique

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Lace is to dream in, to dance in, to romance in. Even when you hold it in your hand, you sense the fragrance of perfume and hear a waltz. It's the stuff that feminine dreams are made of.

It turns up at least once in every collection of the great designers as a gentle rebuke to the tough world in which we live.

Except for the poor, crazed Bride of Lammermoor and the sweet old ladies in "Arsenic and Old Lace," it's hard to imagine violence done in lace.

A vinyl-jacketed lass with grubby hands is a disgusting, but not a necessarily shocking, sight. We see it all too often. But dirt with lace is unthinkable.

Fashion reflects the times. War, mass murders and unrest among youth today provide the perfect backdrop for the parade of stiff, shiny vinyl, studded leather jackets, chain mail dresses and mini skirts.

It's too naive to think that violence could be stopped if the government provided every woman with a beautiful lace dress. But maybe if there was a law that it be worn at least twice a week, its look of delicate, sheer beauty might give us pause for thoughts on the joy of gracious living.

What we wear plays a big role in how we behave. Put a meek and mild man into a uniform, strike up the band and he's a fighting man. And not just because he doesn't have a choice. For those few minutes he WANTS to be a soldier.

Lace is no instant cure for our social ills. It won't turn a gun moll into a thing of sweetness and light. But it could be a deterrent to falling headlong into the toughness of our times.

When we finally make it to the moon, I hope every woman settler will pack one lace dress to set the mood for the new civilization.

If she doesn't like lace, chiffon will do—anything filmy to remind her of her true role in the scheme of things. The soft touch these days is sadly lacking. And it would be nice to see the end of tough chic.

Corny though it sounds, I do believe that a little more "lace" and all it implies could soften a lot of women and bring out the gallantry rather than the violence in men.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN
Dear Helen: I'm 15, a freshman in high school. This summer I met a boy on vacation and now he wants me to go away with him.

We don't love each other or anything, but life at home is horrible. This may sound funny but my parents are too protective. I know they love me, but I'm done for me, meals on time, not sure I love them anymore. His parents are just the opposite. They don't care. I know I'm young, but I've got to get away. Please tell me what to do, but don't tell me to talk it over with anyone. I'd be ashamed to pick up the pieces. —A READER

Dear Doubtful: Funny thing: whenever I get a letter like yours, I almost always receive the perfect answer to it in the same mail. The following may help you tell your boyfriend it's "No go."

Dear Helen: I've got to write this. I am a has-been know-it-telephone call. — H.

WHAT DO THE GOOD GIRLS DO?

Dear Helen: In spite of your saying "nice guys are still around," it has been my friends' and my experience that all boys want to do when they take you out is make-out. If you don't, they say it was a wasted evening, and get the word around you're uncooperative.

I've read that guys go with wild girls until they decide to settle down, and then they choose a good girl. If this is right, what do the good girls do until they settle? Why must we sit home and wait while the easymarks have all the fun and all the boys? — G.G. aloft.

Dear G.G.: In spite of what you say, the Nice Guys are still around. But you won't find them in the "fast" crowd. Raise your sights and aim at the "shy brain" type.

Dear Helen: I'm 14 and have my driver's license, but my folks won't let me drive unless someone is in the front seat — that someone being Dad. They only let me drive on the turnpike, no corners, or anything. When I try to tell them I'm old enough they just laugh. After all they trust me cooking the family meals, why not with the family car? Isn't this awful? — Fourteen, Texas

Dear Fourteen: Awful? If you lived in California you wouldn't even get your Learner's Permit until you are 15 and one-half. Which I personally think is plenty soon enough. Come July, 1967, it gets tougher here: Unless you have passed your official driver training course, you then may not be licensed to drive until you are 18. — H.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Sorry about that." "Would you believe?" If you haven't heard or read these expressions, there's a good chance that you are either a Basque shepherd or a Trappist monk.

Most other citizens use or encounter the phrases with unvarying regularity. They gained currency through the television series "Get Smart," on which they are uttered by the all-thumbs spy played by comic Don Adams. Thus he carries on what has long been a tradition in radio and television comedy: the repetitive punline.

The man responsible for promulgating "Sorry about that" and "Would you believe?" on the American public is the executive producer of "Get Smart," Leonard Stern.

"The comedy catch phrase can be enormously advantageous in achieving publicity," theorized Stern. "You see them and hear them everywhere."

Some comics shy away from trademark sayings, fearing they themselves will fade when the sayings do. They cite George Gobel and his "Well, I'll be a dirty bird," and "You can't hardly get them no more."

"The dangers are minimal if the phrase is not abused," counters Stern.

Just in case the current pair of sayings go stale, Stern has two more warming in the bullpen: "Missed it by that much" and "Hope I'm not out of line."

Here's a bit of a quiz to test how well you remember such punchlines of the past. If you can guess who originated all 10, it proves one thing: you have devoted a lot of time to radio and television:

1. "That's a joke, son."
  2. "Va va va vroom!"
  3. "Wanna buy a duck?"
  4. "I dood it."
  5. "Coming, mother."
  6. "I'm a ba-a-ad boy."
  7. "That's what I keep telling them down at the office."
  8. "Hi-ho, Steverino."
  9. "So help me, I'll mow you down."
  10. "Tain't funny, McGee."
1. Kenney Delmar as Sen. Claghorn with Fred Allen; 2. Art Carney on "The Honeymooners"; 3. Joe Penner; 4. Red Skelton; 5. Ezra Stone as Henry Aldrich; 6. Lou Costello; 7. Jerry Colonna on the Bob Hope show; 8. Louis Nye as Gordon Hathaway on the Steve Allen show; 9. Charlie McCarthy; 10. Marian Jordan on "Fibber McGee and Molly."

Disease's Decline
The occurrence of tuberculosis of all forms has dropped in the United States from 194 per 100,000 population in 1900 to approximately six in the early 1960s. It was the chief cause of death in the United States until 1909, but had dropped to 18th place by

NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

WE PAY TRIBUTE TO ALL OUR NEWSPAPERBOYS TODAY!

DEAR HOPE STAR CUSTOMER:
Be sure and remember your Paper boy's collection date. His time is valuable too, in return let him reward you for your consideration by delivering your Star each day, rain or shine, cold or hot, on time in the same place so it will be easy for you to find.

This is what the Star management is trying to pass on to the newsboys, but it takes two to do business, won't you cooperate? Let your newsboy smile a smile of appreciation today, as this is NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY throughout the U.S.

Thank You,

Church Attendance

BUILDS CHARACTER

Can
He Live
Wrong?

The Ages of Man

Here they are, pictured from One to Seventy...from infancy to old age. It seems a long, long time from one to seventy, but it is only a little while from Seventy to One. The point is, we don't have much time here. The clock's face shows the hours ticking swiftly away. Then, since eternity is so much longer, perhaps we should spend more time getting ready for the life to come. Better not to have been born at all than to spend your life in riotous living. Rededicate yourself. Support your church, give to the needy and be an influence for good. It won't make much difference how much land one owns when the bell rings. But don't forget... it matters much how one lives before the bell rings.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

China Cities Lose Much of Old Flavor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An undertaker isn't necessarily the right man for a chicken farm, particularly if his idea of raising chickens is to beat them with a stick and scare them with a fog horn.
Mao Tse-tung, 72, who buried ancient China, is using a stick and a horn on the modern Chinese, and making a mess of it, even though right now they sound as docile as chickens trying to say yes.

This month the Red Chinese celebrated the 17th anniversary of the Mao-led revolution which captured all mainland China for communism. Without question he is one of the supreme revolutionary leaders and guerrilla fighters.

His regime unified a chaotic and impoverished country. But then he had the task of taking it into the 20th century as fast as possible, with all that meant in industrialization and everything else.

This is where he revealed, despite himself, that an undertaker may not be a good chicken farmer, that a great revolutionary leader may be out of place trying to guide and run a country which needs to organize itself.

Many Chinese, judging from the repeated purges of his critics, seem to realize his deficiency but their voices have been hushed with terror. Yet his terror tactics seem to say he has the same realization himself.

As an authoritarian most of his life, perhaps in part the upside-down product of his resentment against his stern father, it is not hard to see why he would try to destroy any dissent. It would jeopardize his dream of China as he thinks it ought to be and challenge his rightness and fitness for his present role of omniscient patriarch. If dissent prevailed, it would diminish his place in history.

Yet he can't escape the realization, since he saw it happen with Stalin, that the ideas of yesterday's leader may prove out of date tomorrow. Mao is trying to make yesterday last forever. He is having himself defied.

The result: The Chinese people are being clubbed into conformity and into subservience to him, his sayings have become the Chinese bible, all criticism is being rendered impossible, and the sanctity of Mao is being shouted into their ears. He knows well the tradition of the cunning Chinese superman and demonstrated it in 1956 when, to find his hidden or potential critics, he conned them into coming out in the open.
"Let a hundred flowers bloom," he said, "let a hundred schools of thought contend." With this assurance, the critics opened up, and he crushed them. In 1958 he showed his inadequacy as a peacetime leader when, with the "great leap forward," he plunged headlong into his greatest disaster. The "leap" was supposed to modernize China in a hurry.

Agriculture — thanks, also, to bad weather — collapsed, food was rationed, and farmers and workers, driven beyond endurance by malnutrition, became apathetic. By 1960 the "leap" was abandoned.
Meanwhile, through clumsiness, stupidity and cupidty, fanned or made hostile. Relations with India were ruined because of China's impatience for expansion. And China lost

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH 'Rock-and-Roll' Dentures Cause Soft, Spongy Gums

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Is there any way to keep gums from shrinking or from being soft and spongy?

A—No. Shrinkage is consistent with aging. But when teeth are extracted, bone and gums that supported them lose their special function and normal rate of absorption or shrinkage is hastened. Largest amount of absorption occurs in the weeks just after extractions, but the process is continuous as long as we live.

Shrinkage is also affected by our general health. Long and debilitating diseases; periodontal disease; X-ray therapy, such as is used in treating mouth cancer, tend to exaggerate shrinkage.

Soft and spongy gums are caused by dentures that don't fit well. Dentures that "rock and roll" with each bite are the culprits. Unequal and eccentric pressures, such as those caused by poor bite or loose dentures, first cause shrinkage of bone and then loose, flabby gums. This can usually be corrected by rebasing your old dentures or, if necessary, making new ones.

In rare cases the collection of flabby tissue prevents properly fitting dentures and therefore must be surgically removed. This is a simple operation.

Q—Is it advantageous to remove dentures at night?

A—No. Ordinarily dentures should not be taken out at any

QUICK QUIZ

Q—In its manner of fruiting, how is the peanut remarkable?

A—When the petals have fallen, the flower stalk bends downward, pushing the growing pods into the ground, where they develop and ripen below the surface.

Q—What has become of the American satellite Vanguard?

A—It is still in orbit and is expected to continue circling the earth for several hundred years.

Q—How many violins did Stradivarius make?

A—Estimates range from 1,000 to 3,000. Only a few now exist, and they are valued at fabulous prices.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Trick One Is Time to Think

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The best time to do your thinking is at trick one. You may want to think more later on but if you plan the whole play right off the bat you will frequently avoid most problems.

South analyzed West's lead as from a long suit and probably headed by the king. This meant that if South took the first heart trick, he would have to keep East out of the lead. Otherwise East would lead through South's jack of hearts and West would collect a lot of heart tricks.

South counted nine winners provided he could bring home four diamond tricks. He also noted that he could duck two hearts and just play to keep West from taking a diamond trick. The trouble with that line of play would be that there was no rule requiring East and West to keep on indefinitely with hearts. West might win the second heart and shift to a club.

On this thought, South decided to win the first heart and play the diamond suit in a manner that would be most likely to keep East out of the lead.

At trick two he led a diamond to dummy's king and returned the jack. He planned to duck if East played low but East produced the queen. South played his ace and received a nice bonus. The ten fell from West's hand. This gave South five diamond tricks instead of four and an overtrick at his three no-trump contract.

It should be noted that South would have been set if East had held three or more diamonds including both the queen and ten but that South had taken the best line of play.

Cards Upset Bobcats by 23-6 Score

By Larry Don Wright
Hope Star Sports Writer

Arainsoaked field and several crucial errors combined to drop the Hope Bobcats for a 23-6 setback at the hands of the Fairview Cardinals in a AAA contest at Hammans Stadium last night.

Heavy showers descended upon the field just moments prior to the opening kickoff and continued for more than half of the first quarter of play. Thus the entire game was played on a very muddy and slippery field which made for poor footing and loose ball handling on the part of the players.

The Cardinals scored early on their first possession having returned the opening kickoff to the Hope 40 and driving the remainder of the distance for the TD in nine plays from scrimmage.

Fairview was forced to punt the next time they got the ball and Bobcat tailback Danny Turner returned the Cardinal kick 50 yards to the Fairview one yard line before being tripped up. But then with a first and goal at the one, a lost fumble denied the Bobcats what appeared to be an almost certain touchdown. Recognizing what was certainly an outstanding break for them, the Cardinals took their cue and with the help of a pair of major penalties against the Bobcats moved from deep in their own territory across to the Hope 34.

From there a punt on fourth down was bobbled by a Hope player and recovered by the Cardinals, giving Fairview a first and goal at the Hope 10. Again Fairview had received an all important break. Four plays later, halfback Jim Boyette kicked the first field goal of the season in District 4AA play to give Fairview a commanding 10-0 lead with 3:57 still remaining in the first half of play.

The Cardinals weren't ready for the intermission though as they managed to push across another tally in the first half.

Boyette returned a Hope punt 81 yards for the score to give Fairview a 16-0 halftime lead as the PAT attempt was blocked by Bobcat safety Stan Parris.

Following the kickoff to open the second half of play, the Bobcats ran out of downs and were forced to punt. The attempted boot by Bobcat End Freddie Easterling was blocked and deflected behind the punter several yards. A swarm of players from both teams, slipping and sliding, pursued the loose ball. No less than four different players had their hands on the ball at one time or another before a Bobcat finally fell on it at the Hope 11 yard line. Fairview however took over possession from that point with a first and 10.

Hope did manage to hold the Cardinals on this series of downs and the Cats took over at the 25.

However, unable to move, they were forced to punt and the Cardinals got the ball again, this time at their own 48.

On first down Fullback Sandy Nutt blasted off left tackle and found running room all the way to the end zone for the Cardinals final score of the night. Boyette converted good and the Cardinals led 23-0.

The Bobcats started from scrimmage at their own 20 following a touchback on the ensuing kickoff. From that point the Cats mounted the only long sustained drive of the night by either team, marching the 80 yards for their lone touchdown in 15 plays. Wingback Danny Turner scored standing up from one yard out. The extra point attempt by the Cats still trailed 23-6.

Hope's scoring drive was built chiefly around the running of Turner and a pair of pass connections from QB Buzz Andrews to Parris for gains of 19 & 11 yards.

Fairview led in first downs by 6 to 5; gained 160 yards rushing to the Bobcat's 49; Hope picked up 31 yards passing to Fairview 0; Hope was penalized 4 times for 60 yards; Fairview was penalized 5 times for 45 yards.

Cowboys Are Trying to Stay Unbeaten

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The fired-up Dallas Cowboys, with quarterback Don Meredith stoking their air-minded offense, challenge St. Louis for the National Football League's Eastern Conference lead Sunday in a battle of unbeaten.

In the American League, the Houston's Oilers attempt a last-ditch stand, hoping to prevent a New York runaway in the Eastern Division race, when they host the streaking Jets.

The Cowboys would seem to have a better chance at succeeding than their neighbors from Houston. Dallas (4-0) is a four-point choice over the Cards (5-0) while the Oilers, who lost to the Jets 52-13 in their first meeting, are 4 1/2-point underdogs against New York.

Meredith runs the NFL's most explosive offense. The Cowboys lead the league with 183 points in four games — an average of 45.8 per game. They have scored 10 of their 25 touchdowns from farther than 20 yards out.

Mercurial Bob Hayes and Dan Reeves, the NFL's leading scorer with 48 points, are Meredith's favorite targets and the veteran quarterback has pitched for 14 touchdowns, tops in the league.

The Cardinals, who have won five straight, have rallied after half time in four of their victories. Billy Gambrell has been quarterback Charley Johnson's

Texas Hopes to Turn the Tables

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas and Texas collide again Saturday in their storied series, this time at Austin without the fanfare that placed this picturesque town of 23,000 persons in the national spotlight just one year ago.

It was here that the nation's No. 1 and No. 3 football teams collided before an overflow crowd of 42,000 plus a nationwide television audience.

Mighty Texas, top-ranked and winner of 25 of its 26 previous games, stormed into the Ozarks intent on snapping third-ranked Arkansas' 16-game winning streak.

The professional oddsmakers had tabbed Arkansas a slight favorite and the Razorbacks won by a slim margin, 27-24. But few could have imagined what was to take place.

The Porkers used defense to strike for two first period touchdowns, a fumble recovery in the Longhorn end zone by Martine Bercher and a 77-yard dash with another fumble by Tommy Trantham. Jon Brittenum passed 11 yards to Bobby Crockett for still another score and Arkansas stunned the Steers by leading 20-0 in the first half.

But Texas never quit. The Longhorns got brilliant leadership from spunky Marv Kirtynik and the toe of Dave Conway, who had field goals of 35, 34 and 34 yards. Kirtynik's passing set up the first Texas touchdown and he put his team ahead 21-20 with a 14-yard touchdown run in the third period.

Conway's third field goal made it 24-20 Texas with 4:06 remaining in the game.

Arkansas then faced the uphill struggle, but behind Brittenum and Crockett, who teamed on five passes for 68 yards, drove 80 yards to the winning touchdown, a one-yard sneak by Brittenum that touched off the wildest football celebration this town had ever seen.

Neither is ranked among the nation's top ten teams this week and for the first time in 10 years they square off following defeats.

Oklahoma beat Texas 18-9 and Baylor stunned Arkansas 7-0 last week.

There is little talk of this game deciding the Southwest Conference title. There are others seriously challenging the Longhorns and Razorbacks, who have won or shared the last seven SWC crowns.

Even though the national glow is gone for this one, it still generates plenty of fire in the SWC.

top receiver lately with four touchdowns in the last three games. But Sonny Randle and Bobby Joe Conrad are just as dangerous.

The Oilers (2-3) must depend on veteran quarterback George Blanda to pull them out of a three-game tailspin. But New York's front four of Verlon Biggs, Jim Harris, Paul Rochester and Gerry Philbin gave Blanda fits the last time these two teams played.

Blanda and Kansas City's Len Dawson lead the AFL with 13 touchdowns passes, four more than New York's Joe Namath. But the high-priced Jet pitcher hurled five of his TDs against the Oilers in that first game.

New York is 4-0-1 and already holds a hefty edge over Boston (2-2-1), Buffalo (3-3) and Houston in the Eastern race. Miami is 0-5. Another Jet victory could make the lead too much for the others to overcome.

Elsewhere in the AFL Sunday, Oakland plays at Kansas City, San Diego visits Buffalo and Denver is at Miami.

In the National League, Detroit takes on Baltimore, Green Bay visits Chicago, Los Angeles is at Minnesota, Philadelphia plays at Pittsburgh, San Francisco visits Atlanta and Washington is at New York.

Kansas City, at 4-1, is tied with San Diego for the AFL's Western Division lead.

GOP Suggests Fight Harder in Viet Nam

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In sum, the latest prescription offered by Republican policy-makers to deal with the war in Viet Nam adds up to two words: fight harder.

It was offered with congressional elections a month away, and with GOP pollsters reporting that the war is the No. 1 concern of American voters.

Republicans clearly have concluded that concern can be translated into votes on Nov. 8. Their polls indicate a substantial bloc of undecided voters. And their strategy indicates they believe that pronouncements calling for victory in a frustrating Asian war could help GOP candidates attract some of those voters.

Some GOP strategists believe that voter frustration over the complex war situation will work against incumbents in the coming election, regardless of their party.

If that is the outcome, come-back-seeking Republicans will benefit, simply because they have fewer incumbents than the Democrats.

One major unknown factor: The impact of President Johnson's 2 1/2-week Asian tour which will end only six days before the election.

It will include the two-day Manila summit conference where Johnson will meet the leaders of six nations helping to fight Communist forces in Viet Nam. The Republican coordinating committee tempered its hawk-like pronouncement on the war by endorsing that conference as a potential avenue toward peace.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen served notice that the GOP expects an accounting of that mission — "and we expect results."

Dirksen said he thinks the voters will expect results, too. Having endorsed the Manila conference — and noted that Republicans weeks ago urged an all-Asian conference on Viet Nam — the coordinating committee declared: "We insist that every practicable step toward winning the war be taken in support of the thousands now engaged in deadly combat."

The famous Boston Tea Party occurred Dec. 16 1773.

Walt Grooms a Good One

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There always will be guys who know exactly how to take advantage of a situation just as there always will be others like Walt Michaels who won't.

Sunday after Sunday for 10 years, Walt stood behind the Cleveland defensive line, winning a majority of his battles with the Joe Perrys and Ollie Matsons and the Alex Websters.

When he retired in 1961, after playing in five championship games, his total career salary as a linebacker wasn't even a fourth of rookie Donny Anderson's record contract ($700,000) with Green Bay.

The big paydays eluded Walt because he was, and still is, strictly a football man without gimmicks or a flair for publicity.

Now, as a coach with the New York Jets, opportunity is beckoning again, but Walt can benefit only indirectly, which still would be satisfying.

The opportunity comes in the person of Al Atkinson, the Jets' middle linebacker. Atkinson is Walt's number one pupil. The reason is evident: there is a lot of Walt Michaels in Al Atkinson.

Al talks very little, is something of a loner, but as a football player he is extremely smart and tough.

He took over the middle

AL ATKINSON

from Wahoo McDaniell, the Oklahoma Indian who did his best in two years with the Jets to make up for the deal between his ancestors and Peter Minuit.

For a guy who did so little, Wahoo had one of New York's biggest followings.

That's because Sam Huff left quite a void when he departed New York. And now that Wahoo is gone, that void exists again.

"I don't think about it," Atkinson said. "I haven't even learned my position yet. As far as I'm concerned, the

Malavasi Brings New 'Code'

DENVER, Colo. — (NEA) — Ray Malavasi learned all about spirit and responsibility one spiritless and irresponsible August day in 1951.

That was the day Cadet Raymond Malavasi from Clifton, N. J., and 89 other cadets were kicked out of West Point for violating the code—the code being not to mention examination questions to cadets who haven't taken the test, and to inform on cadets who do.

"I was guilty in both instances," Malavasi said, "as guilty as the day is long."

"Regrets? Yes. I was an honorable mention All-American for Army as a sophomore, and I could have been All-American for the next two years. Worst of all, I walked out of that place with my head down instead of up."

"I kicked a good chance in the teeth I don't know about the other 89 guys, but I've always admitted it when people asked me about it. This is one of the big reasons why I can hold my head up now."

Now Ray Malavasi, 36, is head coach of the Denver Broncos of the American Football League, taking over for Mac Speedie, who resigned after the Broncos lost their first two games.

The day he took over the team, even though he was told it was only on an interim basis, he gathered his players around him and told them quarterbacks can have the glory."

For Atkinson, that statement could be considered a talkathon.

The Jets grabbed the 6-2, 230-pounder when the Buffalo Bills released him five days before the opening of the 1965 season. The year before, he had been an All-American (defensive tackle) at Villanova.

"Something like that," Al said, "is a blow to your pride."

The Jets played him on the special teams (kickoffs, punt returns), and Al made a vivid impression with his speed and crisp tackling.

When McDaniell went to Miami in the expansion draft and Carl McAdams, the rookie, broke his ankle preparing for the college all-star game, Atkinson inherited one of pro football's toughest jobs.

"He learns quickly," Michaels said, "and asks intelligent questions. As for hitting people, there never was any worry or doubt about that."

With Atkinson in the middle, the Jets went unbeaten during their exhibition schedule.

Then, in the opening game against Miami, New York won again.

In the locker room, Walt Michaels was walking around with a sheet of paper in his hand. The paper showed New York's defensive statistics and Al Atkinson's name was on the top.

Just where Walt Michaels' used to be.

there would be no alibis, no irresponsibility and no routine practice sessions or dull football games.

He explained also that they should not be embarrassed that they were being coached by an "interim coach" or that people were saying they were the worst team in the AFL. He reminded them that, especially as pro athletes, pride was just as important as the paycheck.

And he talked about challenge.

"Challenge," he told them, "is something you guys probably have forgotten about." When a few heads dropped, Malavasi snapped them back up with a booming, "But I haven't!"

He told the local quarterback club he planned to be involved "the first time in history two Italian coaches oppose each other in the Big Game." The other would be Vince Lombardi of Green Bay.

On the field, short, squat Malavasi ran from group to group inciting small riots.

In his office, Malavasi talked about winning three or four games the rest of the season and, if rehired, starting from the bottom and modernizing the organization.

"I always wanted to be in football," he said. "But after the scandal I was pretty mixed up. I guess I never thought I'd get a chance like this."

For the rest of the season, at least, that'll be the code in Denver.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Milt Plum's got more bounce than Mamie Van Doren. Frank Coach Harry Gilmer's stuck with him. Milt doesn't inspire confidence, but no succor in sight. George Izo, Tommy Myers even poorer risks. RATING: C+

RECEIVING—Retirement of Terry Barr caught Lions with flanker exposed, though Pat Studstill's been adequate here and there. Cogdill's great, but may be a morale problem. Lots of depth at tight end with Ron Kram, Jim Gibbons. Soph John Henderson, rookie Bill Malinchak jack up the threat. RATING—A—

RUNNING—Up in air. Would like to go with Amos Marsh, Tom Nowatzki but it's a gamble. Nick Pietrosante's running out his string. Never can't when Joe Don Looney will get tangled up. He's had enough rope. A hearty Tom Watkins will mean some relief. RATING—C

LINE—Should be in good shape. Ed Flanagan was a center find, gave John Gordy is an all-pro role and tackle Daryl Sanders could join him. Lots of other vets around, plus an excellent rookie in Doug Van Horn, who can play guard or tackle. A comeback by J. D. Smith would be a big plus. A experimenting with huge Jerry Rush on offense. RATING—B

KICKING—Nothing wrong with the booting toe of Pat Studstill, and J. Don Looney's potentially stronger. But placekicker Wayne Walker had off-year on field goals, and a repeat would hurt. RATING—B—

Alex Karras Pat Studstill

DEFENSE

LINE—They broke up the quality quartet when they let end Sam Williams go to Atlanta. It's up to Larry Hand, a soph, or new man Pennie to protect right flank. Darris McCord is showing age (33) on a side, but the tackle tandem of Alex Karras, Roger Brown remains absolutely the best in the league. Question is the living end. RATING—B+

LINEBACKING—Joe Schmidt's supposed to retire to coach, but don't believe it. Heir to Joe's role in middle is Wally Hilgenberg, at least exhibitions. Walker at right corner and Mike Lucci on left are strong enough. Lucci gets competition from Ernie Clark and new kid Billy Co. All depends on Schmidt. RATING—B

SECONDARY—The spark comes from Dick LeBeau, a heavy hitter, Bruce Maher. Could be trouble if Bobby Thompson gets hurt again. Returned their setup last season. Wayne Rasmussen at safety rounds out O.K. quartet. What's behind them is the puzzle. RATING—B—

SUMMARY—Coach Harry Gilmer didn't prove in his debut he could handle this rostering crew. They loom tough as ever defensively, but the attack has some soft spots and particularly lacks leadership. Espirit de corps vital to this perennially talented and challenging team. PREDICTION

Bo Wood

Jake Devonshire of Duke gives a valid signal for a fair catch of a punt but the ball hits Bo Wood, the North Carolina end, on the shoulder. The ball bounces off the Carolina player into the hands of Devonshire and he sprints 80 yards for a touchdown.

The official should:

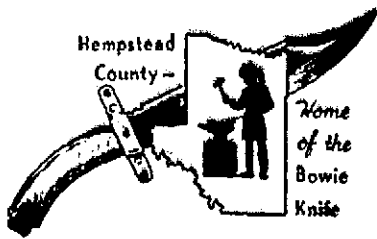

1. Award Duke the touchdown
2. Declare the ball dead at the point where it was caught and penalize North Carolina 15 yards for interfering with Duke's opportunity to catch the kick
3. Penalize North Carolina half the distance to the goal line

Answer: No. 2. Declare the ball dead at the point where it was caught.

A player of the receiving team must be given an unmolested opportunity to catch a scrimmage kick. No player of the team which has signaled for a fair catch shall carry the ball more than two steps, and the ball is declared dead. Rules: 6-4-1, 6-5-2.

United Fund Kickoff Breakfast Scheduled Tuesday at 6:30 a. m.

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Next Tuesday morning at 6:30 the United Fund in Hempstead County will get underway for the 1967 campaign with a kickoff breakfast at the Town and Country. Each year numerous questions arise concerning the United Fund, beginning with the obvious "What is the United Fund?"

It is the annual One Time, One Goal, One Gift Appeal of numerous health, welfare, and recreational agencies that benefit our community and county. Volunteers conduct the campaign, and no outside organization is employed to assist. No individual or organization receives any benefit, and no one engaged in the solicitation is paid.

Oh, but the drive is getting underway with a breakfast, we said. Who pays for that? Well, it doesn't come out of the United Fund. Either the individuals pay for their own meals, or a local business firm or group of individuals pays the "tab" over and above their regular gift.

Several employers whose work force has supported the United Fund 100 per cent in the past were asked why they were in favor of this united effort to raise funds for worthy causes. "One should share in the responsibilities of a community, as well as its benefits," said Harold Eakley of Hope Wire Products. "That's why we are for the United Fund wholeheartedly."

C. C. Lewis of Lewis-McLarty said, "First, it is worthy. Also, it saves time for many, and more employees will go along with it than with numerous individual drives."

From teachers to bus drivers and cafeteria workers, the personnel of Yeger School always supports the United Fund. Regarding this, Will V. Rutherford said, "Those with the necessities of life should share with others. We had rather be solicited just once, though, and then pay either all at once or in monthly payments as best suits the individual."

Hubert Thrash of Tol-E-Tex explained, "More money can be obtained this way while still making it easier on the employee who chooses to give through small deductions from his pay check."

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company with its large work force has supported the United Fund in previous years. Denny Ross, co-chairman this year with Louise Fowler among local telephone company employees, said "For those who give through payroll deductions, it is easier as they are solicited only once while helping with many worthwhile causes."

"We as a town need the United Fund," said Corbin Foster of Foster's Family Shoe Store and the Retail Merchants Association. "It is the life of a town, and both employer and employee give in this way. We of the Merchants Association didn't want this plan to die, when it was threatened to be dropped a few weeks ago. Fortunately, we still have a United Fund in Hope and Hempstead County."

Middle East Poses a New Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The threat of a new Middle East crisis confronted the United Nations today as Israel charged Syria with murders, sabotage and open incitement to war.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban called for an emergency meeting of the Security Council. The 15-nation council was expected to meet Friday.

Israel went to the council after a long series of incidents along the Syrian-Israeli border which the Israelis blame on a sabotage organization based in Syria. On Saturday a land mine explosion killed four Israeli policemen and injured two.

The Syrian government has disclaimed responsibility for the raids, which are the work of a group of Palestine Arab refugees known as El-Assefa — storm — or El-Fatah — conquest. In retaliation, Israeli planes attacked a Syrian engineering project north of the Sea of Galilee in July.

Californians Killed in Wreck

GOULD, Ark. (AP) — Two persons from California were killed Thursday night when their car collided with a tractor-trailer truck about two miles north of Gould on U. S. 65.

State Police identified the victims as Raymond E. Mayberry, 44, and Blanche Mayberry, 43, both of Long Beach. Officers said the Mayberry car sideswiped the truck and then overturned several times. The truck was driven by Carl Miller of Gould.

Sing Their Way Out of Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Thirty-three prisoners sang their way out of jail.

Brought before Police Judge William Colson Wednesday, the prisoners — some wearing paper party hats — burst into the strains of "Happy Birthday."

Later, Mayor Kenneth Schmied passed out cake to the prisoners, who had been arrested on drunkenness charges.

Finally, they were called before Colson, who dismissed the charges because Wednesday was his 47th birthday.

Radios in Cuba Can't Tune U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If you have your radio repaired in Cuba, says a refugee radio mechanic, it will be altered so that you can't tune in U.S. stations.

"Cuban authorities order repairs to remove facilities for receiving short-wave and high-frequency broadcasts," said Sergio Sanchez Ferreiro, who worked for a state-owned radio repair shop in Havana before coming into exile on a recent airlift.

War Passes Storybook Village

QUI HOA, South Viet Nam (AP) — It is a story-book village. Immaculate cottages made of multicolored tiles, sparkling like rock candy, line palm-shaded streets.

This is Qui Hoa, a village of 900 beside the China Sea 265 miles northeast of Saigon.

The war that has raged through Viet Nam 20 years has left Qui Hoa completely untouched — perhaps because the Viet Cong consider the inhabitants untouchables.

They are all lepers. At an outpost overlooking the valley where the Qui Hoa leprosarium is located, three soldiers of Korea's Tiger Division check all vehicles. Once through the checkpoint, the war falls behind.

A smiling Vietnamese patient opens the gate into the leprosarium and then pedals away on his bicycle to find one of the 11 Franciscan sisters who run Qui Hoa.

The leprosarium was founded in 1929 by a French missionary of the Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. Paul Maheu. Three years later, sisters of the Franciscan Missionaries of Mary arrived to continue the work.

When Mother Superior Marie Charles Antoine came to Qui Hoa in 1955, the leprosarium consisted of a chapel, a few huts and a small hospital. There are now 250 modern cottages — built by the patients, costing about $500 each — a beautiful chapel, modern hospital, outdoor theater and various shops.

The Mother Superior designed the buildings "because we could never afford an architect," one sister said.

Nine of the sisters, who are French, Vietnamese and English, work in the hospital dispensary. A doctor from the Vietnamese military hospital in Qui Nhon is available at any hour.

American troops arrived in Qui Nhon more than a year ago and their presence has had an impact on nearby Qui Hoa. Their donations have provided building materials for 15 cottages, each marked with a tile plaque. An example:

"In memory of Lt. Joseph D. Pellegrino who died in action May 17, 1966. Fifth Special Forces Group, Airborne."

U.S. Military in New Viet Nam Offensive

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military headquarters announced today the war's heaviest raids over North Viet Nam and said American plane losses over the north had passed the 400 mark.

U.S. planes flew a record 175 missions against the north Friday, two more than the previous day when a new high was set.

A U.S. spokesman said plane losses now totaled 403, a figure which included three previously unannounced losses.

In another development in the air war, U.S. B52s staged three raids today, including one bombing attack inside the embattled demilitarized zone and a second just south of the buffer.

In the ground war, briefing officers reported only light and scattered action.

But the buildup of allied manpower continued as 239 Philippine officers and men arrived today to join the 1,000-man Philippine Civic Action Group already here. They were airlifted by U.S. planes from the Philippines to their base near the Cambodian border.

Wage Law to Touch Only Few Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm workers are being brought under the minimum wage law, courtesy of a new act of Congress. But only a fraction of the nation's farm hands will be affected, thanks to numerous exemptions in the law.

The law is expected to apply to about 1 1/2 per cent of all farms and ranches and to about 390,000 workers, or 12 1/2 per cent of all farm workers.

The farm as well as the individual must meet certain eligibility rules. Generally speaking, only large farm operations are covered.

Exemptions as to coverage are set forth in the statute President Johnson signed Sept. 23, to become effective next Feb. 1. Backers of the legislation say they would like it to go further; opponents say it places an unfair burden on the farmer as it is.

The new legislation amends the Wage-Hour Act, which heretofore has not been applicable to farm workers. The amendments provide $1.40 an hour minimum for non-farm workers initially, with a boost to $1.60 on Feb. 1, 1968. For farm and ranch workers the minimum is to be $1 an hour in the first year, $1.15 in the second, and $1.30 an hour after the beginning of the third year. There are no overtime provisions for farm workers.

Specifically, the law as it now applies to farm workers provides: That an employee shall not be covered if he is (1) "the parent, spouse, child, or other member of the employer's family," or (2) if he is hired to work on a piece rate basis, commutes daily from his permanent residence to the farm and has been employed in agriculture less than 13 weeks during the preceding calendar year. This would exempt large numbers of college students and others who work only in summers.

Sheep herders and cowboys are exempt. The exact description of those who qualify under this exemption for those "engaged in the range production of livestock" is yet to be drawn up by the secretary of labor.

An important section of the law which results in exemption of the majority of all regular farm hands provides that it shall not apply to any worker if his employer — the farm where he is hired — did not use more than 500 man-days of agricultural labor during any calendar quarter — three-month period — of the preceding year.

A "man-day" means any day during which an employee performs any agricultural labor for not less than one hour. In determining the 500 man-days, the employer does not have to count the time worked by his wife, children, parent or other exempt individuals.

Now Is Time for Some Exciting Adventure in Ozark National Forest

By MAX LOVE, Travel Writer
Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission

Adventurous travelers trekking through the Ozark Mountains of northwest Arkansas should take the time necessary to explore the million plus acres of the vast Ozark National Forest. For it twisting forest service roads that the real adventurer will discover some of the most beautiful and most exciting scenery to be found anywhere in the country.

For those who have not yet discovered this fairytale of scenic beauty, a good starting point would be to take Forest Road 1700, where it joins U.S. 71 near Mount Gaylor, and travel east to where this road is intersected by 1505. Follow 1505 to White Rock Mountain Recreational Area. From this point continue southward on 1505 to Shores Lake Recreational Area. From here turn back north on 1510 to 1003 and then east to Gray's Spring and Bee Rock. By the time you reach Bee Rock the shadows of evening probably will be darkening the deep draws along the road and if you are ready to head home, state highway 23 is only a couple of miles further east. From this point No. 23 south leads to Ozark or north to 1510.

If you have an extra day, head north on 23 and camp out at Cherry Bend. Then on the following day resume your eastward journey along 1003 to state 123 and ultimately hitting state highway 7 — which, incidentally, is one of the most scenic drives in the nation.

The scenic trip just described is sufficient to really whet the appetite of the true adventurer. On a one or two day trip through the Ozark National Forest, the traveler will see just enough to realize that he has fallen under the "Spell of the Ozarks" and from this time forward he will spend more and more time exploring the quaint out-of-the-way places of this section of Arkansas.

All along the routes described — in fact, at almost every sharp bend of the road throughout this vast section of the National Forest — the explorer will find either a narrow draw leading up the mountain or a deep gorge leading down the side of the mountain to the valley below. Be sure to take time out to explore several of these draws and gorges. For, in many instances, here — just out of sight of the road — will be some of the most fascinating rock formations to be found anywhere in the Ozarks. Also the serious explorer will find — and enter — numerous small and large caves for which the Ozarks are noted. The careful observer will note that many of the larger caves probably served as homes to the prehistoric "Cave Dwellers" of the Ozarks.

White Rock Mountain Recreation Area is one of the most scenic spots in the Ozarks. No trip into this section of the National Forest is complete without a tour of this lofty scenic wonderland. The view from either of the three lookout points is breathtaking. Visitors who plan to make an overnight trip into the forest, will find excellent camping facilities here as well as rustic cottages. One word of caution to overnight campers — be sure to bring your food for it is a long trip back to the nearest grocery store.

Near Shores Lake Recreation Area, there is supposed to be a very unusual and mysterious cave hidden behind a grotesque rock formation. According to one report, the entrance to this cave is almost obscure. It is supposed to be very low and narrow, with just enough room for an average size person to squeeze thru. But then, according to the report, you enter into a large room with passageways to other rooms. At Bee Rock the visitor will want to stop for another hour to explore the unusual rock formations in this section of the forest. It is here that eons ago massive rocks rolled down the side of the mountain, lodging on shelves and in draws, creating a grotesquely picturesque panorama that must be seen to be believed.

The tour described above can be made in one day — or the visitor can linger for two days — even a week, and still wish for more time.

But whether you spend a day, a week, or even longer in this scenic wonderland, the odds are a 1,000 to one that as soon as you head homeward you will immediately start making plans to return again and again and again.

Says Johnson Lovingest Man I Know

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winthrop Rockefeller, stepping up his bid for the governorship, capped a busy day Thursday by calling his opponent "the lovingest man I know."

The reference was to a familiar phrase used by Jim Johnson to end many of his speeches: "You know I love you."

Rockefeller made the remark at Hot Springs before a crowd of 2,000 at the civic auditorium. Meanwhile, Johnson, the Democratic nominee, continued his handshaking tour at Morrilton where he again vowed to "shake the acorns from the trees" on his next visit there.

Rockefeller said he had a word for current state employees. "I can't say I love you," he said, "but I can ask you to stay and help build a better Arkansas."

The Republican candidate for governor promised to work for a better welfare program and to keep young persons from leaving the state to seek employment.

Rockefeller also answered remarks by Johnson at Fort Smith Wednesday night when the Democrat discussed Rockefeller's money and family background.

"My parents have given their lives to public service," Rockefeller said, and their children "are trying to follow that philosophy."

Earlier Thursday Rockefeller presented four proposals to turn Hot Springs into "one of America's great recreation cities."

His proposals included a 260-mile scenic highway through the Ozark Mountains, a 2,000-foot board walk, a one-rail elevated train and a recreation area to be known as Tivoli.

Persons were lined up along one block in downtown Morrilton to greet Johnson. Some had thought the candidate would deliver a speech.

Johnson's wife, Virginia, had to miss a speaking engagement before the Arkansas Baptist Medical Center Auxiliary at Little Rock. Democratic campaign headquarters said she had a bad cold and was resting at her Conway home.

Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, disclosed Thursday night that he had invited Johnson and Rockefeller to meet Saturday with the board of directors of the AEA, Department of Classroom Teachers and Higher Education and Arkansas School Administrators Association.

Rozzell said the purpose of the meeting was to allow the two candidates to meet education leaders and discuss their plans for improving the state's education system.

Offer of Help on Flying Objects

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Here's an offer of help for the new Air Force investigation of Unidentified Flying Objects — from 1,200 students of flying saucers.

L. L. Lorenzen formally offered the services of the group called Aerial Phenomena Research Organization, made up mostly of engineers, doctors, lawyers, psychologists and psychiatrists.

The government's new study will take place at the University of Colorado.

$26 Million Building Planned

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A $26-million office building to be owned in shares by its tenants is planned here. The 26-story building would be constructed near City Hall.

Iowa Tornado Kills 6, 150 Are Injured

BELMONT, Iowa (AP) — A tornado, brewed by the same storm system that earlier hit the Rocky Mountains with a snow storm, pounced on this north-central Iowa town Friday, leaving six known dead and 150 or more injured.

Four blocks of the town's five-block-long business district were wrecked, with virtually every business building flattened or heavily damaged. Numerous homes and farm houses also fell to the winds. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Law enforcement officers, National Guardsmen and volunteers worked through the night, some of the time in a cold, fine rain, to clear rubble and search the debris for victims.

State Highway Patrol Capt. Jack Beaman said an "inch-by-inch search" of the town had been completed by midnight.

He said another search would be undertaken by daylight but he didn't believe any more bodies would be found.

Dr. Samuel Leinbach, president of the Iowa Medical Society, estimated that 150 to 200 persons were injured, about 20 of them critically. He expressed appreciation for the amount of medical help volunteered from within a 100-mile radius.

Dominican Is Making Changes

S. ROBERT BERRELLEZ SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — One of the older, more pleasant traditions at the national palace has succumbed to President Joaquin Balaguer's austerity program. White-jacketed palace valets have stopped serving coffee breaks.

And distinguished visitors aren't getting their picture taken with the president. The palace press office is out of film, probably for the duration of the austerity plan, three months or more.

Another and more conspicuous element missing from the seat of Dominican government is the air of crisis, the feeling of imminent disaster that prevailed during the life of the provisional government preceding Balaguer's inauguration.

Even at the height of a flurry of wild rumors of a budding coup d'etat a few weeks ago, the palace pace was of busy unconcern. The mood of the reformer who runs the country was that of a corporation executive facing a grave problem, not the loss of his job.

The probable fact is that the Balaguer administration has a lot less worry about survival than its predecessor.

Still, the atmosphere in the national palace seems to reflect the serene personality who occupies the presidency. The frail, 5-foot-6 chief of state knows all about crises.

The austerity program is the cornerstone of his national rehabilitation plan. Accepted initially as a short-lived campaign pledge, it has become a painful paycheck reality to hundreds of government employees, and to businessmen with overstocked shelves and a shrunken market. There have been only muffled grumblings of discontent so far, probably because the plan's full effects have not been felt. "The more conscientious people are not objecting at all," said Eduardo Comarazamy, a long-time palace employee.

Dominicans with long experience in the Byzantine ways of local political economies are looking carefully — and non-committally — at Balaguer's attempt. The reappearance of individuals linked with the old Rafael Leonidas Trujillo dictatorship has caused speculation about the durability of an honest austerity plan.

Inevitably, however, this speculation clashes with the president's impeccable reputation. This seems to keep hopes alive in a country where faith in government has been dulled by five years of corruption and mismanagement atop 31 years of tyranny.
